EXCLUSIVE VILLA,
D-Hotel Maris, Turkey
Billed as "a masterpiece of modern design", the D-Hotel Maris in Datca, Turkey certainly boasts fine designer credentials. But it also offers plenty of natural beauty. Perched on the spot where the Aegean and Mediterranean seas meet, there are five private beaches for guests, with silky white sand imported from Egypt (it's gentler on the feet). The top suite is the 1,017 sq ft Exclusive Villa, which has its own separate entrance, swimming pool, a private hammam and 24-hour butler service. Take time to catch the sunset, which locals claim is the most beautiful in the world. From $6,550

PRESIDENTIAL VILLA, Banyan Tree, Seychelles
The Presidential Villa, which used to be the Seychellois retreat of Peter Sellers and George Harrison, has its own private cove and pool. There are his-and-hers dressing areas, spacious decks with sun loungers and beds, and plush bedroom quarters. From $1,522

OWNER'S VILLA,
Cheval Blanc Randheli, Maldives
Designed by Jean Michel Gathy, one of the world's top hotel architects, the three-bedroom Owner's Villa and accompanying guest villa are set on their own island a short boat ride from the main Cheval Blanc Randheli resort. There's an 82ft pool, a grand piano in one of the living rooms, an outdoor cinema, a dedicated team of staff and a private spa with Guerlain treatments. Price on request
